ON BIRTH, LIFE, AND DEATH

In gestation we are an organ in the mother's body that is manifesting around a proto-torus, that is, a developing toroidal field that is nested within the mother's field. At this stage, the torus is taking shape and establishing its own nested inner fields that will be its own cells and organs but it has yet to establish full coherence and it does not yet have a fully individuated axis. This fetus is telluric in nature, an extension of the planet.

At this pre-individuation stage this proto-torus is developing its central channel and, at full gestation, the nodes on that channel have manifested into energetic centers of influence (chakras). With the approach of birth, these chakras begin to spin and create an energetic aura that further creates an alignment within the channel. The individuation process begins and the toroidal field begins to generate the electromagnetic field that will be its full individuation "persona". This energy is now a circuit in need of completion. Then, at birth, the toroidal axis springs like lightning from the earth and connects with stellar energies to complete that circuit.

Nested individuated consciousness is immediately established and the first differentiations of a new axial timeline begin.

This new torus is fully nested with the universal field and, as an individuated extension of that field, manifests in perceived physicality. Donald Hoffman might say that Universal Consciousness puts on a new headset and begins a new game. This newly individuated consciousness unit immediately begins to "spend" time as it differentiates aspects of this new "game" to establish its individuated existence. It begins to create its reality, those conditions that it requires for survival within the immediate surroundings in which it has nested. Its awareness becomes more and more cognitive in nature as it weaves these differentiations into a cohesively patterned tableau. Consciousness is now cognizing through one more individuation and that individuated unit begins to reify that tableau into a physical manifestation that is very much like a dream……a dream within a dream, if you will.

The stellar connection is crucial. Our star, the sun, is continuously emitting informational energy that activates and then continuously updates the DNA of this newly formed physical manifestation. Human DNA has been evolving in one way or another for far longer than we realize and it is the stellar activations that are fueling this continued evolution. In essence, as previously mentioned, we are blooms of the earth that are continuously blossoming to the stars for our entire physical lives.

It is this stellar information that continuously “awakens” seemingly dormant DNA causing a subsequent awakening in some of us, that is, those individuated consciousness units that have cycled through multiple corporate manifestations, so much so that they are uniquely positioned to “download” and “install” these stellar information codes.

We are born with the recursively infinite energy of Source. At birth, our field is perfectly coherent, our axis perfectly aligned, and our core spinning like a perfectly aligned top. But as soon as we complete that telluric/stellar circuit, that axis begins to tilt. It is that tilt that creates the wobble that further creates waves of perception that manifest as our physical world. With those first differentiations we effectively create the timeline of our lives. This timeline is our axial connection to Source. As we live these lives that axis spreads and it further tilts, all the while “spending” that time on the myriad of differentiations of our world. This is a highly entropic condition which slowly depletes the initial energy of Source that originally created the axis. Eventually, that entropy results in the terminal dissipation of the axial energy. The axis collapses, the field dissolves, and the remaining energy is re-absorbed into Source, completing the recursive cycle.

There are ways to forestall the inevitable dissolution of our individuated toroidal field and I will discuss them shortly.
